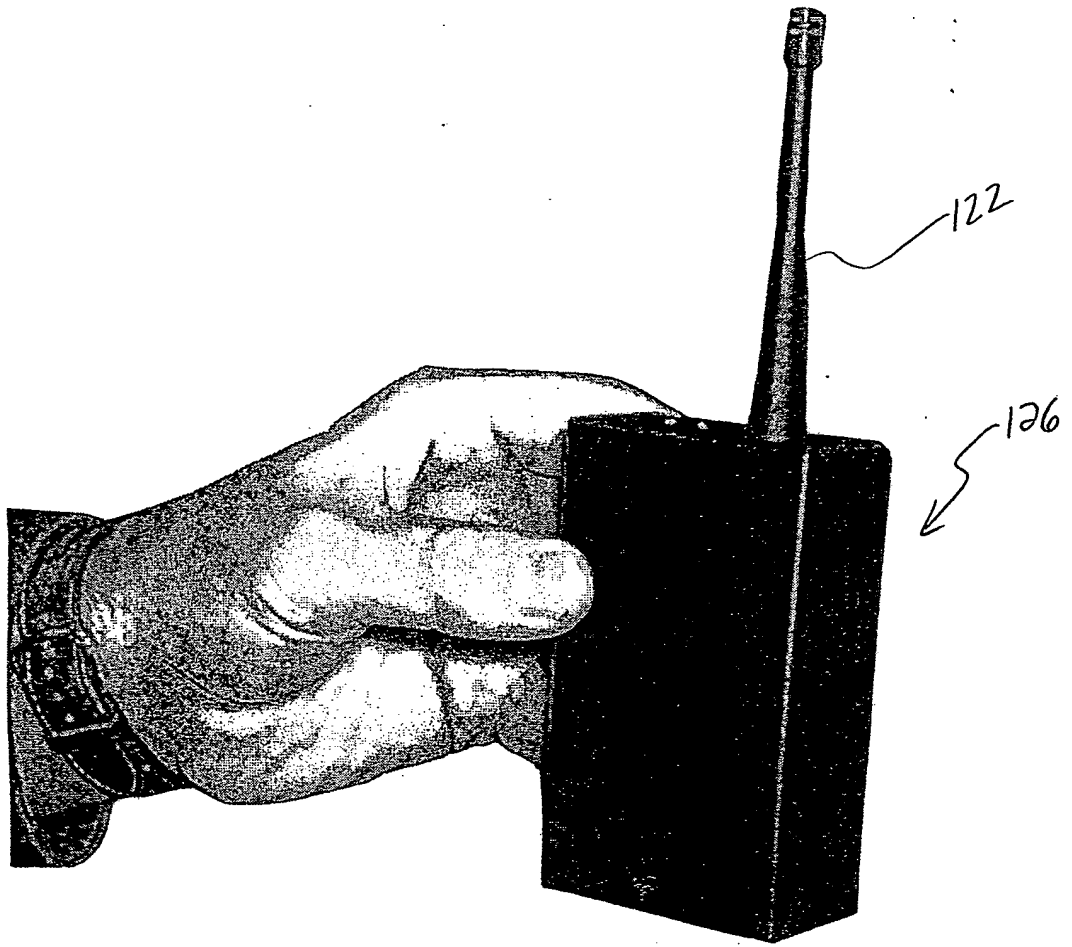

Figure 7

A black and white photograph showing a hand holding a mobile phone. The phone has a long, thin antenna extending from the top. The hand is positioned on the left side of the phone, with the thumb resting on the screen area. The phone is dark in color and has a small, rectangular display screen. The background is white. There are handwritten labels with arrows pointing to specific parts of the phone: '122' points to the antenna, '126' points to the top of the phone body, '124' points to the side of the phone, and '128' points to the bottom of the phone.
